

NBPA Position Statement on Institutional Racism

The NBPA want our policing institutions to develop strategies, analyse attitudes and beliefs to understand the difficulties that individuals or groups have in dealing with institutional racism, and to accept that this occurs.

Only when there is fair representation across all grades, ranks and specialist roles can we be satisfied that inherently racist practices have been eradicated from the police service.